Claims 1-17 and 30-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Welsh et al. 6,874,650.

To elucidate the previous rejection, Welsh et al. teach a nestable container 10 having four sidewalls flared upwardly 22,24,26,28; from a common bottom 12 with each sidewall connected to adjacent sidewalls by an inwardly fluted web extending upwardly from projection 50 towards the open top of the container (by which the container may be gripped) and located at the edges of the sidewalls. Column 2 lines 19-21 state that in one embodiment of the invention the sidewalls are NOT planar to provide several desirable features, one of which allows a person to easily pick up the container 10. Welsh et al. also clearly teach a lid 14 as well as reinforcing ribs 42 on the container itself (best seen in Figure 2).

Claims 1,2, 13, 14, 15, 16 (as best understood), 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lahm et al. D395,392. Lahm et al. disclose a nestable container having upwardly and outwardly substantially planar flared sidewalls, each sidewall is connected to an adjacent sidewall by an inwardly fluted web at the corners of the container, the corners are grippable by thumb and fingers. Note also the stepped section contiguous with the sidewalls parallel with a center axis of the container. Note also the ribs extending midway between the sides.

Claim 17, 30, 31, 32, 33,34, 35,36 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Moore. Moore teaches a stacking container having a frusto conical shaped sidewall, inwardly fluted webs providing thumb and finger gripping areas from the bottom to the top and wherein the fluted webs have substantially uniform radius of curvature. "Textured surface" is met by Moore in that texture may encompass smooth, rough etc. uniform or not.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3, 4, 5, 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lahm et al. in view of Bostrom 3,344,974. Lahm et al discloses the invention except for the capacity and the lid. It would have been obvious to modify Lahm et al. (size) to a desired quantity of the containers contents, 1 gallon or 2 quart, 1 quart and 1 pint are typical for food containers and are desired standard sizes for quantities of food. Bostrom teaches a nestable container/lid. It would have been obvious to add the lid to keep the contents free of contamination. Note also that six encompasses four.

Claims 7, 8, 9, 10,11,12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lahm in view of Fritz 5,423,453. Lahm discloses the invention except for outwardly bowed upper edge and the lid. Fritz teaches an outwardly bowed upper edge as well as a lid. It would have been obvious in view of Fritz to outwardly bow the edges of Lahm to provide an edge resistant to forces pushing inwardly and tending to buckle the upper edge inwardly. The Fritz lid provides the teaching of a lid

(Col. 3 line 66). The material and the radius are considered matters of choice in design well within the ambit of one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.

Claim 38 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moore. Although the exact radius of Moore is not disclosed it is presumed that one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention would understand that size, particularly of containers is a variable choice in design depending on the volume desired to be contained.
